

THE ROCKEFELLER UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL

November 9, 2018

To:

From: The Rockefeller University Hospital

We write to provide you with an update regarding Dr. Reginald Archibald.

Earlier this fall, we reached out to as many former patients of Dr. Archibald as we could locate and asked them to share their experiences with Debevoise & Plimpton, the external legal counsel retained to conduct a full investigation. In response to our outreach, the Debevoise investigators have heard reports of sexual misconduct by Dr. Archibald.

To those of you who have contacted the Debevoise investigators, we express our deep gratitude; we recognize that the decision to come forward is a difficult and personal one. We profoundly apologize to those patients who experienced pain and suffering as a result of Dr. Archibald's reprehensible conduct. We plan to share with you the investigation's conclusions, while protecting patient privacy, when the investigation is complete.

We are writing to reaffirm our commitment to provide support to Dr. Archibald's former patients for counseling services. We now announce the opening of the Rockefeller Hospital Therapy Fund as of November 13, 2018. The Therapy Fund is operated in partnership with RAINN (Rape, Abuse & Incest National Network), a national nonprofit organization that provides hotline and other services to survivors of sexual assault. There is information about the Therapy Fund in the enclosed FAQs (also available on the Hospital's website at: <https://ra-information.rucare.org>).

To request financial assistance for therapy costs and help finding a therapist, if needed, please contact RAINN's dedicated hotline for the Rockefeller Hospital Therapy Fund at: 855-774-4690. Patient communications regarding the Therapy Fund will be kept confidential from Rockefeller.